Forced cooling unit as standard Economical and excellent cost performance. Forced cooling unit as standardHICLAVEHVA series Electro-mechanical lid lock system Dual interlock mechanism Forced cooling unit ■ Features & Functions Excellent cost performance A forced cooling unit is installed as standard. It achieves excellent cost performance while having high basic performance. There are two effective capacities, 85 L and 110 L. Forced cooling unit After sterilization, the chamber pressure is lowered by forced cooling unit to shorten the time to unloading. Electro-mechanical lid lock system The lid can be opened and closed easily and reliably with the one-touch lever. A pressure seal method is used as a safety measure. Dual interlock mechanism The lid is locked by dually detecting the chamber pressure and chamber temperature during operation. The lock state is maintained even if an operation is manually interrupted. Pulse exhaust function Fine exhaust is performed by automatically adjusting the instantaneous exhaust intervals according to the chamber pressure. Memory function Set contents can be registered for each mode. Warming function that does not coagulate the agar media. After sterilization, the agar media is kept warm to prevent it from coagulating. Required utilities ■ Power supply:Refer to the specifications. Household outlets are not recommended. *Ask us for details. ■ Options for upgrading a system
